Dear Josh

Request for a show of support for striking Serco workers at Fiona Stanley next Friday

Maintenance workers at Fiona Stanley Hospital are walking off the job for 24 hours from next Friday 6am to Saturday 6am in protected strike action against Serco.

Workers on this site covered by CFMEU Construction, CFMEU Mining and Energy, ETU and PPTUE have been negotiating together for the first time as a united workforce. The reaction from Serco to this show of solidarity by the workers has been predicable. They've stonewalled and done everything they can to discredit and undermine our right to act collectively.

Despite this, the workers are united and ready to fight for their right to a living wage and a fair and safe workplace.

The contract with Serco means that workers at this so-called 'flagship' Government hospital in WA are doing exactly the same work as all the other maintenance crews at both public and private hospitals across WA, but are paid less, have less rights and conditions, and less job security.

So every single maintenance workers will be off the job and standing vigil outside the gates from 6am this Friday.

Our four Unions would truly appreciate it if a delegation from your Union could come down to show your support and solidarity. We'll have a BBQ going all day and there will be soft drinks and water available.

These workers are right to take on Serco. They deserve a fair and living wage. And we know they'd really appreciate your show of support.

In unity
